

A PHOTOGRAPHIC GLIMPSE INTO LAKE HUNTINGTON YATRA 1981 – 1982 PART ONE - DEVOTEES

From Bhakta John Jagannatha

In the foreground devotees are sitting next to the man-made pond honoring prasadam and in the background is the main building housing the temple room, the prasadam hall and the kitchen. To the right of the main building in the photo is the state road that ran through the entire property. Across the state road directly across from the temple stood the big house where for a time Bhaktin Maria, Parasurama and I lived and shared the residence with her grace Saradiya dasi (ACBSP).

Krisnot Kirtan dasa (ACBSP) performing an abhisheka in the temple room attended by the children from the gurukula.

Srila Prabhupada disciples in the temple room.

...in the forest.

This is the transfer point in the forest behind the gurukula building where trees, chopped down by Achyutananda swami (ACBSP) and other devotees, were cut into logs and then carried in the wheelbarrow down the state road to the gurukula building and the residences of the adult devotees further down the hill.

Here the devotees, the author included, would chop up the logs into kindling for the wood-burning stoves heating the residences during the fall and winter months. A corner of one of the residences and a vacant clothes line can be seen in the background.
